

CHEMISTRY

Design 9: Enthalpy change of combustion of alcohols

The enthalpy change of combustion of alcohols can be determined experimentally by simple calorimetry where the alcohol is burnt and the heat released is used to heat a certain amount of liquid.

Design an experiment to investigate a parameter that affects the measured enthalpy change of combustion of alcohols using simple calorimetry.